Mrs. Lincoln's propensity to sell things Gentlemea interested in the widow of the late President called at various times on some of the Republican officeholders who were purtly indebted to that half for their position, but all to no purpose. Among others, in compliance with the fol-lowing letter, Surveyor Wakeman was waited on, and promised two or three times to accede to Mrs. Lincoln's request. I'p to the present, it is said, he has not been heard from:

Mrs. Lincoln's propensity to sell things was manifested early, and before any necessity was foreseen. This mortilying revelation will go abrond, and, as is natural, the press of Lurge will make the most of it, in deprecating the ingratitude of our Government, and the want of liberality in the American project. This consideration alone constrains us to discharge the unpleasant duty of showing that neither the Government nor the people are justly obanious to these a custions.

THE NEGRO REVOLUTION.

From the London Herald, Sept. 21. Generations may elapse before the ne-ro power in America sets its final stamp pon American society. But it cannot clong before the new influence is distractly felt in the determination of American politics. It is active now in the electroral circles, in the press, in the struggle for place in municipal contests, in the agitations of a time scarcely less heree or passionate than that of the civil war itself.

The trial of the case of the United States vs. John Smart and W. W. Williams, was resumed. After the arguments of the connset the case was submitted to the jury, who returned a verdiet of "not guilty," whereupon the defeudants were discharged.

of course a thousand theories have been dare say, would be treated with impartial contempt by the black editor of the New Orleans paper quoted by our special correspondent, seeing that he believes civilization to have knowed down the Niger, and never to have characterized any people whose parentage ethnographers agreed to derive from the Caucasus. ust really wait, we fear, a long while be-ore this race, which is one of grands of ans still, after countless generations of "culture," presents itself before us in the full perfection of manhood. In the neantine, however, it can, either in the state of a republican confederation or in the colony of an empire, play an imporcolony of an empire, play au impor part. What is that part to be, so ly and politically? He says it is to be of the hull of Bashan among the that of the bull of Bashan among the rams of Midian. It is clear that if this is the ambition of the black in New Or lenns or anywhere else he will have to fight for it. He has learned already to call a "Yankee" the "hickoryfaced animal"—a politeness which he acquired, no doubt, from his betters in bygone days; and we have contemporary organs with white editors retailating upon him as a "dat footed bastard." This may not be hopeful, yet it is suggestive, and it used not persuade us to didu t explain, she will have a chauce this morning at the City Court.

The Reason Why.—In a paragraph in yesterday morning's paper we mentioned the fact that the clock in the tower of the large a wonderful argument in favor based on a terrible medley of "f

But the black politicians of New Orlea do not go so deep; they speak much clost to the purpose, and say, "We will ke up our secret political organizations." up our secret political organizing our "We have commenced organizing our fire department, and one year will find the $120,000 per year now paid to white firmen transferred to worthy, reconstructed citizens of African descent." structed citizens of African descent. There is no soaring towards the empyrean, no sublime world embracing aspirations in this phrase, it means that the United States negro has a notion of putting the new order of things to the hest possible use for himself, and who shall blame him? The only bewilderment produced in our minds by his easy attitude and lofty plans is on the question of L's futurerank in the republic, whether on "the torait or in "the back seat," or whether the miscegenationists, after all, see more clearly than the politicists through the shadows of the time to come.

New Albany Ledger of the 9th gives t following particulars:

New Albany Ledger of the 9th gives the following particulars:

During the latter part of last week, as we learn from gentlemen who came up on the packet from Cloverport last night, a number of during rolberies were committed in Hancock county, Kentucky. On Wendesday evening last, two bold and daring villains, both well mounted, left Cloverport, where they had been staying for a day or two, both of them being entire strangers to the citizens.

Some two miles from Cloverport, on the Ownshoro road, they commenced their depredations. Their first victim was a widow woman, of whom they took some forty dollars. They uext encountered upon the road a citizen of Hancock county named Bell, un l, placing their pistols to his head, compelled him to haul over to them live hundred dollars, which he had in his pocket. Riding ona mile or so farther, they met a Catholic priest, and, drawing their pistols, demanded his money. He was perfectly unarmed, and was compelled to give up a fine gold watch and one hundred dollars in money.

The news of these daring highway robbries spread like fire in dry stubble, and soon forty or fifty eitzens of Cloverport.

The news of these daring highway robberies spread like fire in dry stubble, an roon forty or fitty citizens of Cloverpor and vicinity, mounted upon good horsewere in pursuit; but they failed to over take the robbers. These two men, we ar told, belong to a gang of desperadoes the is headed by a desperate character name Burch. Great excitement prevails at Cleverport, in consequence of their daring mess, and a part of American civilization on that continent. No number of Liberals can be expected effectually to draught them off. Would the dark race, then, be elevated or the white degraded by the adulteration? Judging from the history of the mulatto caste, we do not find that the progress from African blackness through lighter tinges has been invariably favorable to the development of this unfortunate, though favored, first cousin of humanity. It was certainly not so afformations of advantage to the mercantile community. nity.

A FRENCH ROMANCE. About a month ago a young man, salesman in one of the leading honses in Paris, saw a young lady enter, to whom, during the past eight or ten days, he had sold a number of dresses, shawls, gloves, &c. By her accent he anraised that she must be a New York lady. The stranger was pretty, and naturally the young man made himself agreeable and attentive. Whenever she visited the store she always addressed herself to him, and, while examining the articles he placed before her, talked much. The day we speak of she was far less communicative than usual, and after making a somewhat hurried selection, she said to the clerk:

he invited him sans facon like an ac-imitance of long standing, to lunch with r. Although thinking his customer's anners somewhat strange, the clerk ac-pted. While partaking of tea and cakes, e young lady somewhat abruptly ad-
